But, they have a perfect right, agreeable to precedent, to appeal to the people for support; but should the people return men so indisposed to give that support, a ministry would be condemned in Parliament— they would not carry out their measures— their authority would cease accordingly, and they must resign forthwith, and so make room for a more popular cabinet.

Such has been the working of the British constitution, and such must it also be in Canada. It is for our Parliament to decide in its next sessions whether ministers shall tioned, they must either resign or appeal to the electors for support. That is their duty, and the Governor General must turn out on his mission. The exercise of a general election, is presuming his exercise an authority in the premises, which the circumstances of the case do not warrant by any means. We could readily suppose that extreme Tories, who naturally seek to concentrate power in the sovereign, might have taken this course, but for a kind, and so over ride the will of the legislature; but to see parties who verge toward ultra democracy pursuing it, is a piece of inconsistency which proclaims unpurged among their utter want of political principle.

History teaches us the lesson, that democracy verges towards despotism, slavery flourished in Sparta and Rome during the ears of their republics just as it does now in the United States; and whenever we seek for true human freedom, we must antecedents, democracy in Canada always emerges towards despotism; and how, as exemplified in decaying clear-gritism, seek to induce the Governor General to exercise unconstitutional power, and establish an arbitrary and most dangerous precedent. Carry out the principle involved in its legitimate issue, and by-and-by we shall have some Governor General, a la Oliver Cromwell, sending his troops to "dissolve the House."

ing circumstances. Such a course might possibly be warranted in a very extreme

People should accordingly leave the matter in the hands of their own representatives in Parliament, who must either support or defeat the ministers, as they find them worthy or unworthy of their position. It is evident that the Brown faction would graze at office at any price; even to the detriment of the constitution; but the point will the people be fools enough to allow them to do so. We think they will not.

VENTILATED RAILROAD CARS.

At the invitation of Sheriff Luttan, Coburn, and S. Keefer, of the Grand Trunk Railroad, we enjoyed the pleasure of a ride on Saturday last as far as Williamsburgh in a car ventilated on a plan just patented by Mr. Ruttan.

All who have travelled on railroads are aware of the annoyance arising from dust. They also know that a mouthful of fresh air cannot be breathed in a crowded car unless by opening windows, through which smoke and dust occasionally enter in quantities dense enough to kill but sufficient

It may be difficult to explain the principle of the new patent so as to make the reader comprehend it. At the end of the car on the roof, what is termed a receiving box is placed. This box is provided with two pair of self-acting valves—these valves are placed so as to receive a current of air from whatever direction the car moves in, the current opening one pair and shutting the other—the valves having all the appearance of small doors moved on hinges.

forced downwards through a couple of inches along the bottom of the car on each side. The air is thus carried over a tank in which is placed about 200 feet surface of cold water. Over this tank are erected two upright dischargers resembling ornamented chimney tops. These dischargers have two openings, one towards each end of the car, placed about the height of a person's head when seated in the car. The quicker the car moves the greater the quantity of air forced into the receiving box, from which it is propelled over the water in the tank.

on the dischargers, and the air is then discharged towards both ends of the car. There is thus a constant supply of fresh air regularly kept up, the air in the car being discharged every two minutes when the car is going at forty miles an hour. The fresh air escapes at wire openings near the floor inside the car, and directly under the receiving box, and is carried off by a chimney after traversing the whole length of the car. Dust is prevented from entering the car at the windows by the pressure of air inside, which pressure is constantly kept passengers by this invention enjoy a comfortable ride, free from the unpleasantness attendant on breathing smoke, dust and foul air.

During winter the dischargers are removed, and a ventilating stove both heats the car and keeps the air pure, the heated air passing under the floor from one end of the car to the other, thus enabling the passengers to have their feet made comfortable by a constant stream of heated air.

On the short trip made in company with Messrs. Ruttan and Keefe, we had a very tion, and we believe we express the opinion of all who witnessed that and a previous trial, when we state that Mr. Rutan's patent is in all probability destined to be carried into general use in the railroads of Canada and the States, provided the invention can be put in operation at a reasonable expense.

The subject of ventilation has occupied Sheriff Rutan's attention for a period of 13 or 14 years. He has spent thousands of dollars in experiments, and we sincerely hope that his present invention may meet

They were divided from us by the most marked and extensive of these ravines, and eastward of that boundary the whole of the ground suddenly falls, and, instead of rising abruptly from the Alma, gains the level of the hills by a series of sweeping undulations, offering many positions for guns with extensive glacis to the front. Descending from the plateau, some of our parties crossed the bridge, and went out on the plain towards Bonjarsk to the tannu which stand the plains, and which denote the extreme range of the Russian coast.

New Music—Thrace Waters, has been the agent for the sale of Pianos, Melodeons, and Harmoniums, has sent us the following popular pieces of music—

"We'll all meet again in the Morning," by Ballard, sung by Henry Clay Fleming; Music by Thomas Baker. Price 25 cents.

This is a very pleasing melody, in a soft-flowing style, suitable to the family circle. The work is beautiful and we are glad to have been greeted by the following affecting incident:—

"We'll all meet again in the Morning."—I was a beautiful exclamation of a dying child in the red robe of Polonaise straining on his bed, to the window. "Good bye, papa, poor boy; mamma has come for me to-night—Don't cry, papa; we'll all meet again in the morning."

Where there is really no management or direction of nature it can cause very strange feelings, but you must not be alarmed; always disappear from four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is gone, you feel yourself like a new person. I have seen some of the most extravagant economists say that they ever man listened to.
